

http://www.rollingstone.com/music/videos/lucy-hale-films-lie-on-the-opry-stage-20140730

LUCY HALE FILMS 'LIE' ON THE OPRY STAGE

Watch the 'Pretty Little Liars' star's "Lie a Little Better" video, filmed at the Grand Ole Opry

Like Share 27 Tweet 100 Pin It Comment 1 Email

ADVERTISEMENT

BY ROLLING STONE | July 30, 2014

Lucy Hale's new "Lie a Little Better" video is a big step towards separating her Hollywood and Nashville lives. Instead of acting out the lyrics to the clever love song, the Pretty Little Liars star chose to film the majority of the music video on the hallowed stage of the Grand Ole Opry.

RELATED

Lucy Hale Takes 'Pretty Little' Turn as Country Singer

Working once again with director Philip Andelman, who was also at the helm of her "You Sound Good To Me" video, Hale is shown in a few clips frolicking outside with friends, but most of the scenes are of the 25-year-old entertainer performing in the empty-seated Opry house and inside one of its dressing rooms, sprightly singing into a hairbrush. Hale made her real-life debut on the Opry earlier this month.

"Lie a Little Better" is the second single off the Memphis native's debut album, Road Between. Though she's not giving up her day job as "Aria" on Pretty Little Liars, Hale is both fulfilling a lifelong career dream and showing fans her true self through country music.

"I live in a world where I play characters and I don't always get the opportunity to be myself," she tells Rolling Stone Country of her TV job. "As a young female, it's kind of weird to talk about your true feelings. You're not allowed to be upset and you're not

Like Share 27 Tweet 100 Pin It Email

AROUND THE WEB

'80s Stars You Won't Recognize Today

Shows You Absolutely Don't Want to Miss This Fall

Why Josh Hartnett Disappeared From Hollywood

Celebrities Reactions To Robin Williams Death

POWERED BY ZERGNET