

This Is Our Youth: From YouTube To Netflix, Gen-Z Is Remaking Celebrity. The Z-List Is Here

If it feels like Sabrina Carpenter is everywhere — it's because she is, in the best way. As a Disney alum and singer-songwriter, Carpenter also has a starring role in 2019's The Short History of the Long Road. She hopes to star in a comedy with Joey King next.

What do you see as your generation's biggest asset or advantage?

"Our minds! I think we are very good at thinking outside the box and want to see change in a positive way. I love seeing our generation being there for one another and empathising more with each other."

Where do you see yourself at 29?

"Doing all the things I'm working towards right now — it's a long journey."

How do you talk to your friends and family about the entertainment industry?

"Brutally and honestly, which is exactly what this industry exudes. It can be good and bad in certain doses. It is so important to surround yourself with authentic people."