

JOYWAVE RELEASES 'NOW' VIDEO

FIRST U.S. HEADLINE TOUR KICKS OFF SEPTEMBER 18 IN SAN FRANCISCO

BAND TO PERFORM AT READING AND LEEDS FESTIVALS

Clip from "Now (JöS edit)"

Keeping in line with their wildy inventive and creative string of videos, Joywave has released another visually stimulating piece of film for their current single, "Now." A fan favorite live and currently moving up the alternative radio charts, the video for "Now (JöS edit)" was shot and edited by guitarist, Joseph Morinelli, features a montage of Joywave's whirlwind year on the road since the release of their debut album, How Do You Feel Now? earlier this year.

Performing on Jimmy Kimmel Live, having Tony Hawk introduce their performance at this year's X Games, releasing a slew of acclaimed remixes, touring with Bleachers, Brandon Flowers and the Kooks, which culminated in a buzzworthy performance at Summerstage in Central Park are just some of the highlights of the last six months.

Called out by Thrillist.com as one of the "20 Bands You Need to See This Summer", Joywave recently announced their first headlining US tour this fall, the World Tour USA 2015 with special guests Alpine, and have already sold out their LA date on September 22nd. Next week, the Rochester, NY based band will make their debut at two high-profile UK festivals -- Reading and Leeds, and will also perform at Lollapalooza Berlin.

Dates for Joywave's World Tour 2015 are below as well as the link to the "Now (JoS Edit)" video.
